

Add Play To Your Work.....Fall 2011

Dear Friends,

As I write this, I'm experiencing what has become annual angst about whether we will reach our conference registration goal. We have such a great conference planned. Dr. David Crenshaw is a nationally known speaker and author who will speak to and play with us on Saturday. Dr Karen Levine is a local jewel, known for her work with autistic children, her roots lie in play therapy, and this will be a fun event for her to tie the two together for us. Finally, we welcome Judith Kneen, LICSW, a long time Social Work professor at BU and a local play and sandplay therapist who will enlighten a conversation about processing grief and loss in the sandtray. This workshop is a direct response to those of you who requested more advanced topics, as it is requested that you have some sandplay experience to register for this event.

This is our annual fall conference, so this also means it's time for our annual meeting. This is your chance as our members to speak up about what you would like to see happen in your future with NE-APT. Discussions about speakers, venues, activities and more happen at this meeting.

I hope to see you there. Don't forget, anyone who registers by Oct 19th will be entered to win a "Ron's Trays" handbuilt wooden sandtray. It's going to be a fabulous weekend!

Playfully yours, Sarah

PS. Barbara VanHoff is at the Annual conference in California representing NE-APT. She reports that she has received many fabulous and fun donations to become door prizes for our conference. Come play with us, and take some fun prizes home too.....

Like us on Facebook to hear about special prize drawings, and weekend conference activities.

We need your help!

We have a fabulous conference planned, but still need your help to get the word out. Stop delaying, register today and get your friends and colleagues to come with you..... Share your love of play...

Questions we have for you:

What do you love or dislike about our conferences?

What helps you decide to attend?

What stops you from attending?

Do you forward emails to colleagues?

Do you need flyers to post?

Do you have a better marketing idea?
